ABSTRACT:

A passive optical transceiver for receiving a first optical signal stream and transmitting a second optical signal stream, including a photodetector for detecting a first portion of the first stream, and an optical modulator for modulating a second portion of the first stream to provide the second stream wherein said streams are colinear with said photodetector and said modulator.